Award-winning remodeler partners to expand reach

MINNEAPOLIS – Nov. 21, 2016 – Award-winning New Spaces, a leading home remodeling and restoration company in the Twin Cities, has expanded the reach of its award-winning services with the addition of veteran homebuilder Meg Jaeger of Mega Homes to its team.

Over her 23-year career, Jaeger earned a reputation for building and renovating the finest homes in the most welcoming communities. Currently president of the Builders Association of the Twin Cities, Jaeger will focus on helping New Spaces customers who seek to transform their living environments with well-planned and highly crafted interior spaces.

“New Spaces began helping homeowners more than 30 years ago, working primarily in the south metro area of Minneapolis and St. Paul,” said Shawn Nelson, owner of New Spaces. “We are really excited about the opportunity to help more homeowners in the west metro now that Meg is part of our team.”

“More homeowners recognize they do not need to move to enjoy the home of their dreams,” noted Jaeger. “New Spaces can help people realize their dreams through thoughtful design, expert craftsmanship and superior materials.”

Under Nelson, New Spaces has been recognized as one of the top home remodelers in the nation. In 2016, New Spaces earned the Robert Hanson Industry Service Award. The National Association of the Remodeling Industry (NARI) additionally recognized New Spaces for Achievement in Consumer Excellence (2010), as its Regional Contractor of the Year (2009), and its National Contractor of the Year for Bathrooms (2008). The Better Business Bureau also bestowed its Integrity Award on New Spaces in 2006, and Nelson’s company has earned numerous design awards for kitchens, bathrooms, basements and specialty projects.

Nelson, past president of the Builders Association of the Twin Cities and board member of the National Association of Home Builders, said that New Spaces will host a holiday design seminar that will include discussions about remodeling trends for 2017 and new products and building materials available to homeowners who are considering projects in the coming year. The event will take place at Elevations Showroom, 5320 West 23rd St. in St. Louis Park on Wednesday, Dec. 14 from 6-8pm. Visit www.newspaces.com for more information.
